Safety

We want to run a safe event. First aid equipment will be on hand and there will be staff trained in first aid on the day. Please report any injuries, including minor ones. If you suspect a serious injury or concussion please report it immediately.

Spectators

Spectators are welcome and encouraged to attend the tournament. All attendees by being at the event agree to appear in photography or video, which may be posted publicly on social media.

Cheering, chants and general rowdiness to the level of having a good time as could normally be expected from spectators is welcome, however spectators should maintain a safe distance from the piste and not interfere with the conduct of the event.

Tournament Rules

When the Goths had introduced the custom of single combat, the art of defence became a necessary study: it was confined to certain rules, and academies were instituted to train up youth in the practice of them.

The moderns having adopted the small sword in preference to the ancient arms, it gave rise to a new species of defence, distinguished by the appellation of Fencing, which justly forms part of the education of persons of rank; giving them additional strength of body, proper confidence, grace, activity, and address; enabling them, likewise, to pursue other exercises with greater facility.

Domenico Angelo, The School of Fencing (1787)

1. Statement of Intent

Fencing is a game of sword fighting. While the conventions that governed historical sabre fencing are descended from "real" fighting, they were practiced as a competitive sport and as a form of leisure, and we play fencing in the same spirit. The sources that we learn from and the competition conventions set out within reflect the premise that the aim of fencing is to hit one's opponent without being hit. This competition aims to allow competitors to apply their fencing skills in a safe, fun and fair way, while rewarding technical excellence and tactical decisions that uphold this premise.

The goal of this tournament specifically is to provide a safe and supportive environment for people from a diversity of backgrounds and identities to compete. We recognise that when done well, competing in tournaments can be of massive benefit to the emotional wellbeing of participants and aim to conduct an event that provides those benefits to all participants.

2. Conduct Expectations

- 2.1. Beyond the rules set out in this document, all participants and spectators are required to adhere to The Old Sword Club's Safety Rules and Code of Conduct.
- 2.2. Fencers are expected to:
 - 2.2.1. Abide by the tournament rules and all directions from the Event Coordinator and Referees,
 - 2.2.2. Act as a line judge during the pool and elimination rounds when not fencing,
 - 2.2.3. Present themselves for matches and gear check/briefing in a timely manner,
 - 2.2.4. Maintain their composure during matches, and
 - 2.2.5. Take deliberate actions not to cause injury.
- 2.3. Fencers have the right to:
 - 2.3.1. Fair treatment,
 - 2.3.2. Appeal to the Referee over their application of the rules, on the basis that a rule was misapplied, and
 - 2.3.3. Complain about any breaches of The Old Sword Club's Code of Conduct, under which the event and associated social activities are held.

3. Weapon Requirements

- 3.1. Sabres must be at maximum 89cm long (blade length) and weigh between 650–900g, with a point of balance at least 7cm beyond the guard.
- 3.2. All sabres must:
 - 3.2.1. Be in good condition, free from rust, burrs or other damage that could compromise the safety of the weapon; and
 - 3.2.2. Be fitted with a leather (or similar) thrusting tip, and covered with brightly coloured tape.
- 3.3. All blades must have adequate flex to deliver a safe thrust. Blades must flex at no more than 10kg pressure when pressed on a scale.
- 3.4. Swords may be disallowed at the discretion of the Tournament Organiser if they are not recognisably sabres.

4. Equipment Requirements

- 4.1. All fencers must wear at least the following protective equipment to compete:
 - 4.1.1. Mask designed for HEMA or Fencing rated to at least 350N, with an overlay that provides total protection of the neck and of the whole head,
 - 4.1.2. Rigid protection covering the throat,

- 4.1.3. Jacket designed for HEMA or Fencing rated to at least 350N,
- 4.1.4. Rigid protection covering the elbows,
- 4.1.5. Rigid protection covering the knees,
- 4.1.6. Rigid protection covering the shins,
- 4.1.7. Padded gloves designed specifically for HEMA providing full coverage of the hand and wrist, with rigid coverage for sections exposed by the guard (knuckles, back of hand), and
- 4.1.8. Genital protection where appropriate.

Fencers may wear additional protection at their discretion.

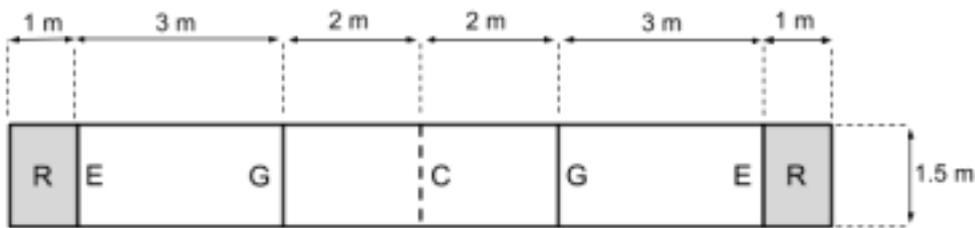

- 4.2. A fencer's PPE must fully cover all of one's skin. Clothing that is not fully enclosed, such as skirts/kilts, must not be worn unless over fully covering clothing. Loose-fitting clothing is permitted where it cannot be moved to expose skin.
- 4.3. All equipment must be constructed to professional levels of fit, finish, and function.
- 4.4. If any part of the equipment is found to be insufficient after fencing has begun (e.g. breakage of a jacket, mask or knee protector) the issue should be corrected as per tournament rules.

5. Competition Structure

- 5.1. The tournament will consist of a round robin pool round followed by an elimination round. The top 2–3 fencers from each pool (depending on the number of entrants) move forward to the elimination round.
- 5.2. Pools will be seeded by fencers' HEMA Ratings and made up of 6–8 fencers (depending on the number of entrants).
- 5.3. The elimination bracket will be seeded by the overall results of the pool round. Fencers will be ranked within their pool and overall based on the following criteria in order:
 - 5.3.1. Total number of wins,
 - 5.3.2. Total number of points scored by a fencer,
 - 5.3.3. Total number of points scored against a fencer, and
 - 5.3.4. Winner of the bout between two fencers who are otherwise tied on other criteria.

6. Match Format

- 6.1. Matches will be held on a piste 12m long and 1.5m wide, marked as below:

- C Centre line
- G On-guard lines
- R Run back (extension of piste)
- E End of piste (rear limit)

Diagram taken from the Radaelli Cup 2024 rules

6.2. Each match is fenced for a timed duration or until one fencer has reached a certain number of points, whichever occurs first. The timer will be stopped between exchanges, so that the timed duration of the match will only include fencing time.

6.2.1. During the pool round, each match is fenced for 2 minutes of fencing time or up to 5 points.

6.2.2. During the elimination round, each match is fenced for 4 minutes of fencing time or up to 10 points.

6.3. Play begins on the command from the referee (usually, "On guard. Ready? Fence.") and continues until stopped by a referee with the call of "Halt!"

6.4. The referee calls "Halt!" when a touch is scored, a fencer is disarmed, corps-à-corps occurs, immediately when time is reached, or for any other reason they deem necessary. When "Halt" is called, the fencers will immediately rise from their guard and step back out of measure.

6.5. At the beginning of the bout, and after a point has been scored, play begins with both fencers on their respective starting lines.

6.6. After an invalid touch, the referee resumes the bout in the same manner as after a point has been scored, but play begins at the part of the piste where the invalid touch was made.

6.7. If a fencer puts both feet outside the piste along the sides, the referee halts play and resets both fencers. Touches made after a fencer has stepped outside the piste are invalid, but fencers may step outside the piste in the course of performing a valid touch.

6.8. Winning a Match

6.8.1. In the pool round, the winner of a match is the fencer with the most points after 2 minutes, or the first fencer to reach 5 points, whichever is the first.

In the elimination round, the winner of a match is the fencer with the most points after 3 minutes, or the first fencer to reach 8 points, whichever is the first.

6.8.2. A match may not end as a tie. If, at the end of a match, both fencers' scores are equal, a further minute is allowed to break the tie. A coin is tossed before the beginning of the extra time to determine the outcome of the match if neither fencer is to score within 60 seconds.

7. Scoring

- 7.1. A scoring touch is worth 1 point, awarded to the fencer who makes the touch.
- 7.2. A touch may be made with the edge or the point of the sabre. Touches made with the edge must show adequate edge alignment (i.e. using the true edge or the top third of the false edge).
- 7.3. A touch will not score if it is insufficient in the opinion of the referee. The referee will deem a touch insufficient if:
 - 7.3.1. A touch with the point does not stick and flex,
 - 7.3.2. A touch appears incidental and unintended,
 - 7.3.3. A touch with the edge is given where a touch with the point was clearly intended; a passe thrust, or
 - 7.3.4. A touch is given only superficially through an opponent's parry.
- 7.4. Touches will only score when made to the target area; touches outside the target area are considered invalid. The target area is the body above the knees and head, inclusive of all clothing and protective equipment. The hands, back of head and spine, shins, groin and feet are off-target.
- 7.5. After the referee has determined the outcome of an exchange, fencers may self-call hits to their disadvantage, choosing to disclaim touches they have been awarded or admit to touches on themselves which were not seen. The referee may overrule self-calls at their discretion.
- 7.6. If one fencer leaves the back end of the piste with both feet, a point is awarded to the other fencer.
- 7.7. If one fencer is disarmed, a point is awarded to the other fencer.
- 7.8. If one fencer loses their weapon during the course of play and receives a touch in the same tempo, the touch is allowed. If there is a pause between the loss of weapon and the touch, the hit is not allowed.
- 7.9. Any attack that is initiated after the opponent's touch is completed (i.e. an afterblow) does not score.

7.10. Right of way

Right of way exists to determine the outcome of exchanges in which both fencers are touched in the same or successive fencing tempos (a double touch).

The fundamental aim of fencing is to hit without being hit. The premise of right of way is thus that if a double touch occurs, then one fencer must be more at fault for being hit, and the fencer who is least at fault is to be awarded the point. Fencers must respect an opponent's attack; the fencer who makes the first attack has right of way, and the other fencer must defend themselves in order to score.

In the event of a double touch, the order of hits is irrelevant, and right of way (thus, the scoring touch) will be determined as follows:

7.10.1. When there is an attack and a counterattack, the attack has right of way.

An attack is considered to begin when the hand and sword begin moving towards the target (not on the movement of the leg) in an attempt to touch. Any movement prior to the attack beginning (such as a feint, lifting of the arm or rotation of the sword backwards) is considered a preparation and does not grant right of way.

Any attack made while moving backwards or dodging is likely to be considered a counterattack.

7.10.2. When there is a riposte and a remise/reprise/redoublement, the riposte has right of way.

When the riposte is delayed such that the remise lands at least one tempo before the riposte, the riposte is considered late and the remise/reprise/redoublement has priority.

7.10.3. When there is a point-in-line (i.e. a threatened thrust with the arm and sword pointed straight at the opponent's target) and an attack, the point-in-line has right of way as long as it was established before the attack was initiated.

7.10.4. When there is an attack made on the blade (such as a beat, prise de fer or engagement immediately followed by an attack) and an attack made directly, the attack on blade will have right of way. An attack on blade is considered to be successful if there is contact with the opponent's blade that noticeably displaces their sword.

An unsuccessful attack on blade (where there is no or insufficient contact) does not grant right of way.

7.10.5. When both fencers initiate attacks in the same tempo, neither fencer has right of way.

8. Penalties

8.1. Cards will be issued by a Referee to address behaviour that is disallowed in accordance with the penalty table below.

8.2. Cards may be given during the match, or retrospectively, and so alter results after a match has finished. A fencer awarded a card outside of a match setting, shall have the card applied to their next match at the start of their bout, or to their last match should all of their matches be completed.

8.3. If a fencer incurs a card during a fencing phrase resulting in a touch made by that fencer, their point is annulled.

8.4. Cards will carry the following effects:

8.4.1. Yellow Card: an official warning valid for the duration of a bout.

8.4.2. Red Card: a point is awarded against the offender.

8.4.3. Black Card: the offender is ejected from the event, and withdrawn from the competition, and their results for all bouts completed within the competition are altered to a complete loss.

8.5. All offences with the pattern of yellow, red, and red for the first 3 offences are considered a shared group of offences.

8.6. If a fencer has received a red card for committing an offence from the group of offences, any further group offence they commit will result in a red card rather than a yellow.
